IHE Statement

Chair of the IHE Board of Directors Steps Down

Dr. Paul Armstrong has resigned as Chair of the IHE Board of Directors.

Dr. Paul Armstrong has resigned his position as Chair of the IHE Board of Directors, effective May 22, 2019.

Dr. Jon Meddings, Dean of the Cumming School of Medicine at the University of Calgary and the current Vice Chair of the IHE Board of Directors, will assume the position as Interim Chair of the IHE Board of Directors.

There are no anticipated disruptions in IHE operations, and the IHE Board of Directors will be determining the approach for transition to a new board Chair in the coming weeks.

The IHE is grateful to Dr. Armstrong for his service and contribution, and wish him well in his future endeavours.

The IHE is an independent, not-for-profit organization that performs excellence in health economics research and health technology assessment. Our core objectives include: supporting decision-making in health policy and practice with evidence from research in health economics and health technology assessment; assessing the medical, economic, social, and ethical implications of both established and new health practices, procedures, and technologies; and facilitating discussions and partnerships among government, academia, industry, and healthcare providers to address important issues in health care.
